EXTENSION OF AMUSEMENTS TAX APPROVED

Legislative Committee Votes To Assess All Admissions Above 15 Cents.

WORK ON NEW PROGRAM

Group Hopes To Complete New Plan Today; Proposed Soap Tax Killed.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 17—Approval of a plan to extend the 10 per cent amusement tax to all admissions over 15 cents was voted 8 to 2 today by the special joint legislative taxation committee in formulating its poor relief tax program.

The tax on amusements now applies only to admissions of over 40 cents.

At the same time, the committee, named as the legislature convened in special session here yesterday, eliminated a proposed 5 per cent tax on toilet soaps from the suggested cosmetics tax group. In its stead, was substituted a 5 per cent tax on jewelery. This likewise was adopted by an 8 to 2 vote.

Working to get a tax program before the assembly for its speedy consideration, the committee later in the day was scheduled to hear representatives of brewery interests on the proposed one-half-cent-a-bottle cap tax on beverages.

Most members of the committee favor a tax of one cent.

Changes in Estimates

Elimination of the proposed 5 per cent tax on toilet soap cut the governor's estimate on revenues from the program being considered by $200,000, but the substitution of the jewelry levy was estimated to supply an additional $500,000 annually.

Carlton S. Dargusch, member of the state tax commission, estimated that the fixing of the amusement tax at a 15 cents exemption would not reduce materially the estimated $3,000,000 annual revenue from this source.

Evert Tharp, representing the Ohio Brewers, told the committee the brewers are ready to absorb a one-half cent tax on bottled beer, as proposed on the governor's program. He indicated they would strenuously oppose a one-cent tax.

"Don't bring in the wet and dry question in consideration of this tax and strangle the beer industry," Tharp said.

Hopes for Speedy Work

Governor White will be presented with a complete selective sales tax relief program tonight, if the goal of Senator D. J. Gunsett of Van Wert county, chairman of the special committee is realized.

Gunsett, putting his committee to work revamping the governor's No. 3 proposal which contemplates modification of the tax program enacted by the regular legislative ses-

POISONS FOUR

Mark Shank, Akron lawyer, a native of Attica, O., in Crawford county north of Bucyrus, confessed to poisoning four persons at Malvern, Ark., because, he said, they "knew too much" about the disappearance of documents in a forgery case at Wooster, O. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Colley and their two children. (Photo by the Associated Press)

LOAN OFFICIALS NAMED HERE

Henry Mickley and Henry Drake Appointed Attorney and Appraiser.

COUNTY SETUP COMPLETE

Action Expected Soon on First Home Owners' Applications for Aid.

Appointment of Henry A. Mickley and Henry P. Drake of Marion to represent the Ohio Home Owners' Loan corporation in this county as attorney and appraiser, respectively, has been announced by State Manager Henry G. Brunner at Columbus, an Associated Press dispatch reported.

The appointments completed Marion county's setup under the federal home owners' relief act and in a short time action is expected upon the first applications for aid. Mickley and Drake will work on a fee basis.

Drake Already Agent

Drake at the present time is serving as agent for the corporation in the Marion sub-division which includes Marion, Crawford and Morrow counties. How the new appointment would affect his position as agent, Drake was unable to say.

With the ruling of State Commerce Director Theodore Tangeman in Columbus yesterday that liquidating banks may accept the bonds without limit in payment of mortgages, Drake excepts an increase in the number of formal applications. Tangeman said that thot would result in a more rapid liquidation of closed banks.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation will accept the bonds for loans up to 80 per cent of their face value.

Applications Delayed

Through failure of applicants to obtain consent of mortgage holders to accept the bonds in payment, the filing of applications in Marion county is virtually at a standstill. However, the number of persons seeking information regarding the loans continues to increase and today more than 250 had been interviewed by the local agent.

Other appointments announced today included: Wyandot county—attorney, David Creger, and appraiser, R. E. Weidaw, both of Upper Sandusky.

Homer Orr of Newark has been named agent for Licking, Coshocton and Delaware counties.

SHANK PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN POISON DEATHS

Heavy Guard Placed About Justice's Office at Arraignment.

Worked Blackmail Racket Prisoner Says; Will Be Quizzed at Akron.

By The Associated Press

BENTON, Ark., Aug. 17—Mark H. Shank, 41 years old Akron attorney, entered a formal plea of not guilty to the poison murders of Alvin Colley, Colley's wife and two young sons before Justice of the Peace J. P. Carter here today.

He waived preliminary hearing and was ordered held without bond for action of the Saline county grand jury which meets Sept. 4.

The information filed by Prosecuting Attorney Miller Halbert included the murders of all four persons, Colley, his wife, Ethel, and the sons, Clement, 11, and Claren, 7. Separate indictments in each may be returned by the grand jury Halbert said.

Shank was brought here under heavy guard from Hot Springs. A guard stood outside the building where the justice's office is located and prevented spectators from entering.

Sheriff Virgil Rucker of Saline county would not disclose where Shank will be held for the present.

Shank maintained his usual calm during the ride from Hot Springs and when he was arraigned. He still was nursing cuts and bruises which he received in his flight through the woods and when he leaped from a moving automobile with Colley dead at the wheel. Shank, has not employed an attorney.

A third child, three years old, who was taken to a hospital at Malvern and saved, today was dressed in clothing brough him by well-wishers. Bodies of his parents and brothers are in the morgue at Malvern.

Woman Sought For Questioning

AKRON, O., Aug. 17—The woman behind the quadruple killing to which Mark H. Shank, Akron lawyer, confessed at Hot Springs, Ark., was sought for questioning here today while Shank's distraught wife sped to her husband's side.

In the confession Hot Springs officials said they obtained, Shank asserted a woman had demanded money from him under threat to use information confided to her by Alvin Colley to cause criminal prosecution of the attorney. Shank was quoted as saying the woman threatened to publicize the information Colley gave her.

Colley, his wife and two of their children died of the poison Hot Springs detectives said Shank admitted putting in grape juice he gave them at a picnic lunch near Malvern, Ark., Tuesday.

Akron police said the woman they were asked to question had obtained a $10 payment on the $500 they were informed Colley was promised if he would remove certain evidence detrimental to one of Shank's clients from the Wayne county prosecutor's office at Wooster. Wayne county authorities still hold a warrant for Colley's arrest on a charge of stealing the evidence.

Shank's client is serving a prison sentence for forgery. He pleaded guilty when Prosecutor Lyman R. Critchfield Jr., disclosed that he held photostatic copies of the stolen evidence.

Detectives were informed, they said, the woman Shank named in his confession would appear for questioning sometime today. They said an "outsider" promised to bring her in.

Jobless Ohio Star Gazer Finds Comet

Delphos Amateur Astronomer Credited With Fifth Important Discovery.

By The Associated Press

DELPHOS, O., Aug. 17—An unemployed Ohio draughtsman today was credited with another important astronomical discovery, and, he said, it was the one that gave him his biggest thrill.

Leslie C. Peltier, amateur star gazer who has been observing variable stars for 15 years and has four comets named for him, made his latest discovery after 12 years search. It brought him another commendation from Leon Campbell of the Harvard university observatory staff, who characterized the occurrence he observed as "extraordinary."

Has Small Telescope

With the same six-inch telescope of about 50 power Princeton University loaned him in 1922 and with which he found the comets, Peltier discovered a cataclysm that transformed the obscure star, Nova Ophiuchus, No. 3 from a son of the eleventh to the six and a half magnitude.

Nova Ophiuchus No. 3 had been just a star in a faint group of the less important constellations before Peltier discovered it had increased its apparent radiance by almost 100 per cent. It still is invisible to the naked eye except under unusually good conditions. It is about 35 degrees above the southern horizon, not far from the constellations Sagitarius and Scorpio.

Although Harvard university scientists estimated the change occurred 10,000 or more light years ago, it was not until Tuesday that Peltier observed it. It had taken that long for the Nova's lightrays to travel the billions of miles to the earth and become visible even with the aid of a telescope. And light, moving at 186,000 miles a second, travels about 6,000,000,000 (billion) miles a year.

Campbell and his associates at Harvard directed their attention to the star after Peltier telegraphed them of his discovery. The Ohioan had watched Nova Ophiuchus No. 3 for a dozen years looking for just such a transformation.

Is "Very Happy"

For his own part, Peltier would say little about his find. He said he was "certainly very happy," that Harvard observers had confirmed his discovery, then thanked his informants and went back to his telescope in the observatory he built in his home with the Princeton lenses.

Among the discoveries astronomers credit to Peltier are those of the comets K-Peltier, noted in 1925; A-Peltier, in 1930; H-Peltier, in 1932; Anda-Pentier, in February this year. Comets are designated in order by initials and the name of their discoverer.

COUZENS TESTIFIES IN DETROIT HEARING

U. S. Senator Tells of Hoover Request in Regard To Dawes Loan.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 17 — Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan, testifying before the Detroit bank investigating jury today, said he had been asked by then President Hoover during the last political campaign to issue "for political purposes," a statement approving of the loan of $90,000,000 to the Chicago bank of which Charles G. Dawes was head.

Mr. Hoover, the senator said, "wanted the statement for political purposes." The request, he said, came in a telephone call from the White House.

"I said I would be glad to do so if he got an opinion from his attorney general that I would not be violating the law," said Couzens. "All loans had been confidential until about July 15, when a law was passed requiring the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to report to congress on all loans made in secrecy."

The Michigan senator said that while his statement of approval was not formally issued, he did approve the Dawes loan.

"The nation was shocked when it leaked out from some source unknown to me that Dawes, former president of the R. F. C., had got a loan from the R. F. C. of $90,000,000, Couzens said. "Of course, the party that was out of power capitalized on that."

Couzens assented to a request of Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, [illegible] tioner, to the effect [illegible] what is called [illegible]

Meeting Called To Plan NRA Celebration Here

Division Chairmen To Map Out Program Friday Night; Local NRA List Up To 687.

Definite plans for Marion's civic NRA celebration will be mapped out Friday night at a meeting of all division chairmen of the local NRA campaign committee in the Marion Chamber of Commerce offices.

Called by Mayor W. C. Phillians, chairman of the committee, about 25 division chairmen are expected. The meeting will start at 7:30 p. m.

Tentative plans for the celebration next Wednesday night call for a band concert and talks by a prominent state NRA worker and local leaders in the movement. The courthouse esplanade has been selected as a tentative site for the jubilee.

Committeemen are awaiting final word from the Cleveland NRA state headquarters before announcing the name of the out-of-town speaker.

Printers To Meet Tonight

Meanwhile, forward steps were being taken today by other local organizations. A meeting is scheduled for tonight at 7:30 p. m. in the Chamber offices of all employers of printers in commercial shops.

An oranization will be formed, the employers said, with the view of mapping out conformance to NRA wage and hour agreements under the blanket code. Later, employers said, it is planned to call a district meeting of printers' employers in Marion and adjacent counties in an attempt to fix uniform scales of hours, wages and price adjustments.

Waldo business men last night adopted uniform opening and closing hours at a meeting at the township house.

With 14 additional signers from yesterday noon until noon today, the Marion postoffice list of cooperating employers reached a total of 687.

Communication Received

An explanation of the duties and powers of the Marion NRA campaign committe was received today by W. D. Brown, manager of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, from the national recovery administration in Washington, D. C.

The NRA sent Mr. Brown a chart illustrating the relation between the national headquarters, the state recovery board and its cooperating unit, the state recovery council, and the local committee. The purpose of the local committee, the chart shows, is to "arouse and maintain popular support of NRA action as that is applied through the state board. It will advise, re-

Aged Co-Founder of League 'Steals' Prohibition Show

By The Associated Press

WESTERVILLE, O., Aug. 17—Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, 77-year-old co-founder of the Anti-Saloon league, "stole the show" at the premier of the Ohio dry forces' new prohibition play.

Though cast in a minor part as a juror, Dr. Russell repeatedly brought the house down at the first of his two appearances in the cast. Behind a "handle-bar" mustache, a goatee, and an exaggerated bow tie, his pointed questions to the judge in a trial scene demonstrated to the skeptics that he possessed all the dramatic ability he had said he used to show as a student in an Iowa college.

The play, based upon Sinclair's "wet parade" will be taken on a tour of the state after its second night of "seasoning" here tonight. Dr. Russell, however, will yield his place in the cast because, "I'm too busy to go but I did want to show them how it ought to be done."

The play will be presented at a dozen cities between now and Nov. 7, when Ohio votes on delegates to a state convention which will pass on a proposal to repeal the state and national dry laws.

COMMITTEE TO BACK SURVEY

Citizens To Raise Money by Popular Subscription for Study of Plan.

WILL SEEK FEDERAL AID

Officials Will Cooperate If Plans Appear Feasible and Practicable.

Proposed municipal ownership of two of Marion's public utilities moved a step forward last night when city council in a special session adopted a resolution in which it agreed to seek federal financial aid if a survey shows the projects are feasible and practicable.

Both municipal water and electric plants are on the program presented to council by the citizens' utilities committee.

The resolution was adopted at the request of the committee, which intends to finance a survey of the utilities problem in Marion.

The survey will become a civic project, with the city having no part in the financing. The citizens' committee plans to raise the funds through popular subscription. Council did not act on the request for financial cooperation from the city, pointing out that it did not have the funds from which ot appropriate.

To Survey Reports

As the situation now stands, the citizens' committee will finance the survey by an engineering firm. The report on this survey will be turned over to the council and if the members consider it advisable, formal application will be made to the government for funds to finance the complete project. Separate surveys will be made for the water system and the electric plant. Council will have its choice of recommending the construction of either or both.

The motion to comply with the request of the committee was made by Councilman Henry O'Dowd and received the unanimous support of the other members.

Under the present policy of the federal public works program, self liquidating projects such as municipal water and electric plants would be financed entirely by the government. The government would make a flat grant of 30 per cent of the cost of the project and would finance a bond issue for the remainder at a low rate of interest. The bonds would be refunded from the earnings of the projects without any increase in the local taxes.

Jacoby Urges Action

In presenting the request to council, J. W. Jacoby, spokesman for the committee, said that the city probably never would have another such opportunity of getting federal aid on the projects. He said that now is the time to make provision for the future.

Estimating that at least 90 per cent of Marion residents feel that the city should own its own water plant, he said that the people should have what is economically best for them.

Discrediting reports that the government would not finance a utility project where a community already is being served by a private enterprise, Jacoby told of information he had received from Ohio's public works representative in Washington. He said the government is looking with sympathy

AGREEMENT ON OIL CODE IS EFFECTED

Points Settled at Conference With President; Auto Code Change in Dispute.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Principles to govern oil's NRA code today quickly were determined in a conference around President Roosevelt's desk while industrial officials expressed the desire to float the recovery banner over steel, automobiles and coal.

"We reached an agreement for principles of the oil code," Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator said after a lengthy White House conference and Secretary Ickes proponent of close government regulation smiled assent.

"I think the code will get 100 per cent support from the oil men," Johnson added and at his office immediately placed the latest developments before [illegible] chieftains. He saw them for a few minutes and then summoned them for a conference at 4:30 p. m.

Practical Jokers Find New Way To Carry On Pranks

Practical jokers have discovered something new to make life miserable for their friends.

A small electrically operated bomb of the harmless Forth of July variety is connected across two of the spark plugs. When the owner of the machine steps on the starter switch there is a loud explosion followed by dense clouds of smoke.

Ora O. DeWees, night sergeant at the police station who is considered somewhat of a topnotch joker himself, was one of the victims last night.

When the bomb exploded, DeWees got out of the machine in nothing flat and ran to the center of the street. As he stood there with his right hand on his revolver ready for action, a crowd in front of Hotel Harding burst into laughter.

DeWees returned somewhat pale to his automobile and drove away.

Marion Man and Sisters Reunited After 52 Years

After 52 years of separation, John Wendler, 74, of 387 Girard avenue and his two sisters, Mrs. Kate Seibert, 76, and Mrs. Lena Rutishauser, 71, both of Fernandina, Fla., were reunited here over the week-end.

Since 1881, when Mr. Wendler lived in Upper Sandusky and his sisters lived in Tiffin, the three had not seen each other until Saturday, when the sisters motored here. They left Monday to attend the World's fair before returning to Florida.

Came to U. S. in 1878

In 1878, when Mr. Wendler was 19, he and his sister, Kate, came here from Germany, leaving two sisters, Mary and Lena, in the old country.

The young man went to Upper Sandusky and got work with John Siders, following his father's trade of blacksmith, and his sister went to Tiffin. Two years later, unknown to the brother, his youngest sister, Lena, came to this country and went to Tiffin.

Mr. Wendler married Caroline Schaeffer in 18[illegible] and his sisters visited them, leaving shortly to make their home in Florida. The brother didn't know to what point in Florida his sisters had gone, and when he moved to Marion in 1887, his sisters had no way of finding him. He went to work for Michael Clary, a blacksmith on North Main street, and until he was stricken with arthritis some time ago, continued his trade, working for the Marion Steam Shovel Co., the Fairfield Engineering Co., and other industrial plants in Marion.

Addresses Traced

About five years ago the sisters and brother began writing to each other. An attorney had learned of Mr. Wendler's whereabouts and wrote him regarding an estate in Germany in which he and his three sisters were involved. Through the attorney, the sister Mary in Germany and the sisters in Florida found his address. They began corresponding, but it wasn't until this last week-end that they finally saw each other.

FACTOR UNDER POLICE GUARD

Chicagoan Protected from Vengeance for Aiding Attempt To Trap Kidnapers.

DEATH THREAT RECEIVED

Meanwhile, Officers Scour Wisconsin Resort Area in Hunt for Fugitives.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug 17 A heavy guard protected John Factor millionaire market plunger today from gang vengeance for his involuntary part in the police effort to entrap his kidnapers which failed.

Meanwhile 60 selected Chicago officers armed with federal commissions to make their search an interstate affair, scoured the southern Wisconsin resort region haunt of the Touhy gangsters—for trace of the extortionists who slipped out of their mass dragnet near suburban Lagrange Tuesday.

A death threat telephoned the speculator who already reportedly has yielded more than $100,000 to kidnapers who seized first his son, Jerome and then himself, brought the police detail to his door and a bitter complaint from him.

Factor Complains

"I was reluctant to assist the police. Factor said referring to the foiled entrapment plans "Now that they've failed I'm left out on a limb, considered by my kidnapers to have broken my word to pay off the balance of the ransom and to shield them."

While Factor, palpably frightened in his hotel apartment by the turn of events after the failure of 300 police aided by airplane and elaborate planning to nab his kidnapers protested police 'horned in' on the final pay off the Wisconsin search proceeded without aid from local authorities.

The squads swept through a dozen resort towns spurred by belief their quarries lost at La Grange might seek refuge there and hopes that additional suspects in the kidnapings of William Hamm Jr St Paul brewer and Charles Urschell Oklahoma City oil millionaire might be apprehended.

Chief Chagrined

Though chagrined over the fiasco which attended elaborate plans to nab the kidnapers, Chief of Detectives William Shoemaker said his men disguised as the cab driver and telegraph messenger who handed over a bogus ransom package to the suspects recognized them as gangsters. He refused to reveal their identities.

The pair fled, it was learned, with about $100 in marked money from Factor, one getting a lift from a farmer out of the territory in which the small army of officers were hunting them and the other losing himself in the thick woods of the region. Earlier reports said the kidnapers obtained $500.

WHEAT CUT BENEFITS TO BE PAID 3 YEARS

U. S. Makes Change in Original Plan To Include Only 1934 and 1935.

Farmers cooperating with the government in reducing their wheat acreage will receive adjusted payments for three years instead of just for two years of deliberate reduction it was announced today by R H Gilbert, special Marion county agent.

This is due to the fact that weather has made a considerable reduction in the 1933 crop, he said. The adjusted payments will be made this year as if farmers had concertedly reduced their planting at the last sowing. The adjustments will be made for the three crop years—1933 1934 and 1935.

The extent of the reduction to be asked by the government has not been set. It will not exceed 20 per cent, the maximum. The amount of the crop cut will be announced before each planting.

Gilbert is arranging a series of meetings with farmers in various communities of the county to explain the working points of the farm loan act.

COUNCIL ACTS ON CITY UTILITY PLAN

on projects where the situation is such as in Marion.

Bids have been received by the committee from engineering firms on the cost of the survey. The highest was $10 000 and the lowest $1,450.

Among the items the survey is scheduled to cover is an outline of plants and distributing systems, cost of plants, time required to build systems, rate schedules for users with what it would cost under municipal ownership and sources of water supply. The plans are to meet all requirements of the federal public works administration for a grant and loan and the engineer is to prepare the application for the loan.

Jacoby estimated that it would take 90 days to complete the survey but that sufficient data to apply for federal aid could be obtained in 60 days.

Fred W Warner, another representative to the committee said that what the group wanted from council was an expression that if the survey showed the projects feasible and practicable application would be made to the federal government.

The committee will meet next Wednesday night in Jacoby's office to consider the method of raising money for financing the survey and to let the contract. Council members were urged to attend.

The language stated that "employers may contine the open shop policy under which the selection, retention and advancement of employes will be on the basis of individual merit without regard to their affiliation or non-affiliation with any labor or other organization."

Organized labor immediately assailed this provision, contending it violated the law and that the law could not be offended by any code.

CONSIDER ACTION TO BOOST BUTTER PRICE

Dairymen Call on Wallace; Protest Delay in Stabilizing Market.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Aug 17—Emergency action by Secretary Wallace in an effort to take some of the butter surplus off the market and increase prices for the product was strongly indicated today at the farm administration.

A committee representing dairymen's associations over the country gathered today at the department and protested what they called delay in action to stabilize the price of dairy product.

An official announcement was contemplated at the farm administration and members of the delegation said they thought the emergency action would take the form of an equalization fee to dispose of an accumulating surplus of butter and probably other by-products of milk.

A proposal strongly favored was that a one cent a pound levy be made on butterfat. This would be used to repay a drawing account which the dairymen would have on treasury funds.

sion, said he hoped to complete final action today.

The diminutive Democratic leader from Van Wert county expressed the belief the relief program would be passed today notwithstanding the demand of senate Republicans that the governor submit a plan for school financing immediately to be considered along with the relief program.

The tax program contemplates use of the revenues for relief until next January, after which they would be used to finance county bond issues totaling $16,500 000 for future relief. The proceeds would be prorated to the counties which would issue bonds against them the same as they issued bonds against the one cent increased utility tax.

Besides considering the relief program Gunsett's committee, over his objection was asked to consider a resolution censuring Carlton S. Dargusch member of the state tax commission for alleged activity in attempting to obtain enactment of a sales tax, while allegedly neglecting his duty as a member of the tax commission. The resolution was offered by Senator Carl D Sheppard Republican of Summit county.

Cites Alleged Propaganda

Sheppard called attention to newspaper articles written by Dargusch which he declared were "propaganda for a sales tax" in a "deliberate attempt to deceive the people of Ohio."

Representative Gus Kasch, Democrat of Summit county, was authorized to return to his seat by a house vote of 87 to 0. He had been suspended during the regular session for making a derogatory remark against the speaker.

'Law' Surprised—But Not So Much As the 2 Thieves

"Imagine my surprise," said Sheriff C. C. Fye.

The other night Sheriff Fye and one of his deputies nearly caught two "birds" with one stone when a pair of chicken thieves decided to raid the coops on a Marion county farm at the same time.

The sheriff who has been getting but little sleep due to the activities of thieves on farms, and a deputy had a hunch that a certain farm would be visited by a thief and decided to lie in wait.

After fighting mosquitoes for several hours, the two officials were rewarded by the approach of a man from the east. As they watched him cautiously work his way toward the henhouse a noise from the northwest attracted their attention. Another man was seen approaching with the aid of a flashlight held close to the ground.

About that time the men saw each other and stopped momentarily, apparently no more surprised than the sheriff. Then both started running and escaped.

Pontiac.. THE WORLD'S LARGEST BUILDER of STRAIGHT EIGHTS

The 4-door Sedan, $695, f. o. b. Pontiac. Special equipment extra. A General Motors Value

Here's why America is buying them!

Men and women are buying more Pontiacs than any other car in Pontiac's price range! Why? Because they have found that this big, modern Straight Eight excels on all counts . . . as you will find when you see and drive it.

You get power in a Pontiac—more power than you'll find in any other automobile at or near its price—delivered far more smoothly by Pontiac's 77-horsepower Straight Eight engine.

You get more speed, too—78 actual miles per hour. Your Pontiac holds the road better—rides more comfortably—because it's a big car, with 115-inch wheelbase and well-distributed weight (3265 pounds, curb weight, for the 4-door Sedan). And it's the only car in its price range with the Fisher Ventilation System—greatest comfort factor since the development of the closed body.

There just isn't anything to compare with Pontiac at its price. In Fisher Body beauty—in comfort—in Straight Eight performance. That's why America is buying Pontiacs. That's why you'll prefer Pontiac, too.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

PARK PROGRAM FOR GIRLS NEARS CLOSE

Many of Grade School Age Take Advantage of Supervised Play.

With only two weeks left in which to enjoy the supervised playground program at McKinley, Lincoln, Garfield and Roosevelt parks, Marion girls of grade school age are losing no time in making the most of the opportunity to enjoy the activities.

The program, launched early this summer under the sponsorship of the committee of parental supervision and situation of the Council of 100 will close Aug. 31.

The program was arranged by Miss Margaret Clapsaddle, assisted by Miss Emily Frank, Miss Victor Gilmore, Miss Ruth Turner and members of the Harding High Girl Reserves.

Games, recreational sports and some needlecraft work occupy the time each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon between the hours of 1:30 and 4. At Lincoln park a number of smaller boys under the age of 10 years have joined in the activities and yesterday enjoyed a baseball tournament. A doll show will feature the program arranged for smaller girls next week, and a field day celebration will mark the close of the season at Lincoln park Aug. 31.

Members of the Harding High Girl Reserves are assisting in the programs and supervision at the parks on each of the days. Parents are urged to send their children for the remainder of the season.

ALWAYS LOGICAL, cautious, careful is the intelligent French nation. Possessing more than twice as many fighting airplanes as any nation in the world, it could, with great ease, wipe out any dozen cities within a thousand miles of Paris on any afternoon. Nevertheless, it worries about its own cities, open to air attack, by Mr. Hitler or any one else, and worries especially about Metz, important fortress in Alsace-Lorraine.

That town, recently taken back from the Germans, would be one of the first that Mr. Hitler would like to gather in. The great fortress had never been taken until Bismarck got it in the war of 1870, and was therefore called by the Frenchmen La Pucelle.

Today Metz' great walls and bulwarks mean nothing. The French know that the safety of cities depends on what antiaircraft guns can do from the ground, and they are experimenting.

The question about Metz now is not whether some future Bazaine would give up the fort in disgrace, to be sentenced to degradation and death as Marshal Bazaine was. The question would be: How long could Metz, or any of the other old-fashioned fortresses, to say nothing of great cities, with their banks, palaces and stock exchanges, outlast bombardment from the air?

Homemaker's Question Box

Question—How can I tell how much it costs to operate my various electrical appliances? What is the approximate amount of current used per year by the following appliances in the average household?—Washing machine, flat iron, vacuum sweeper, range, refrigerator, radio?

Answer—The unit in which power is sold is based on the watt (the rate at which power is used) multiplied by the length of time the power is used in hours. The result is the number of watt-hours of power used. The unit is too small for ordinary purposes so the kilowatt-hour (usually abbreviated kwhr.) is generally used. One kilowatt-hour is equal to 1,000 watt-hours.

If the name plate of the device states the wattage, divide the number of watts by 1,000. (This gives the number of kilowatts.) Multiply the result by the price paid kilowatt hour, and then by number of hours the ap used.

If you know the amperage voltage, multiply the num amperes by the voltage to get watts, then divide the watts 1,000 and multiply by the paid per kilowatt hour length of time in hours the appliance was used.

The following are estimates the electrical energy used mestic electrical applia year in the average house

Washing machine ......
Flat Iron ....
Vacuum Cleaner ....
Range ....
Refrigerator ....
Radio ....

"The vital thing is that, for Lazarre's sake a warning has got to be given. What they'll do then, I don't know. They may cut and run for it; on the other hand, and which is much more likely, knowing them for what they are, they'll probably fight it out—in which case Lazarre is as likely to get his as anyone else. But before that I've got to get Lazarre sorted out from the rest of them some way or other, and some way or other manage to get a word with him in private. I'll have to be guided by circumstances, that's all."

"MUCH too complicated," she said a little anxiously. "But why did you land so far away from the club? I am sure you could have gone almost right up to the club itself. Shall we do so now? You won't have so far to walk."

"And run the chance of you being seen! Not much!" he ejaculated decisively. "I didn't go any farther because I was afraid of running into fast water. As it is, I thank my stars now that I landed where I did. Just the nicest kind of black shadows here against the bank! I couldn't have chosen a better hiding place for the boat—and you."

"Very well," she agreed; "perhaps that's so. I am to be boat tender, then?"

"You are," he stated promptly. "And you're not to leave it. I'm the skipper tonight, and those are orders. I won't be away a moment longer than I can help. I shan't stay for the show, of course,"—he laughed lightly—"now that you're here. Whatever else I do, I've got to get out of this before the fireworks start."

"Yes," she said quietly, "that's another reason why I came."

It was an instant before he grasped her meaning, and, staring at her, understood why her eyes were wet again.

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

Philip Veritzen's Threat To "Deal with the Arlen Situation" Worries Madge.

TO MY horror, I found myself trembling so violently, after Philip Veritzen had seated me back of the coffee urn, that the delicate china cup and saucer which I took up jiggled noisily in my hands. I set them down quickly, and sternly addressed myself to the task of pulling myself together.

He had upset me terribly, not so much by what he had said as by the things he left unsaid. His last enigmatic comment left me particularly perplexed. How did he mean to "deal with the situation?" Was it possible that he was now going to wreak upon Avis the wrath which had its roots in the frustration of his plans for Noel, and include Noel and Mary in his displeasure?

Or—for a moment I struck a more hopeful note—was it possible that he finally had regretted his cruelty to Mary and Noel; that he saw Mary's true value as contrasted with the utter worthlessness of Avis, and that he meant to deal summarily with Avis so that she should be cured of any further propensities to mischief?

What did Philip Veritzen mean to do?

Mary and Noel Disappear

I heard little exclamations of approval and delight over the wedding supper. I saw my husband's beautiful niece cut her cake; her bridegroom beaming his approval. And then I noted that Mary and Noel had disappeared, and I knew that if I were to see Mary before she left, I must not stay at my post any longer.

The wedding supper was by no means over, however. Noel and Mary had slid away almost unobserved. But I signaled to Katherine and she came over to me.

"Please take my place here," I whispered. "I'm going upstairs, and I'll open the door carefully and take a peep at Faith to see if she is awake."

"She won't be," Katherine rejoined confidently, "but by all means look at her if you want to."

She smiled as she made the retort, and I smiled back at her. But I knew and she knew that underneath our smiles and our apparently careless words she was commenting upon my fussiness, and I was letting my mean jealousy of her care of my baby raise its head.

I salved my conscience with the reflection that only when my nerves were frayed almost to distraction did I permit that feeling to get the upper hand of me. But I opened the nursery door and listened to my baby's even breathing with a fantastic wish that I could snatch her up and fly with her.

This was no time to indulge in vagaries, I reminded myself sternly, and shutting the door softly I went across to Mary's room and knocked.

"Come in," she said softly, and when I entered I gasped in astonishment. She was almost completely dressed in her traveling costume, while her wedding gown and veil and the accessories were spread out upon the bed, ready for putting away.

"Why, Mary!" I exclaimed. "However did you manage—"

"Ah!" She paused and swept me a swift courtsy. "I'm what is known in theatrical parlance as a 'quick change.' I hope Noel is as nearly ready, but I know he isn't. Go knock on his door, will you, darling, and ask him how nearly ready he is. Tell him to lace his shoes in the car. I'll drive, if he isn't all ready."

I went obediently down the hall and knocked softly at Noel's door. He did not admit me, and I knew he was not yet changed, but I gave him Mary's message and received his promise to be at her door, fully ready for the journey, in three minutes.

As I went back to give her the message, I almost collided with Marion flying upstairs.

"Quick!" she said, as she opened Mary's door without knocking and dragged me inside. "There'll have to be some tall hurrying around here, or these boys will get on to your scheme."

Best Bet.

In Governor White's five-point tax program, three points appear doomed to rejection before the house and senate even get into their stride. Legislators will not vote for a retail sales tax. They will not submit the question of a bond issue to the voters, although that would be the most direct way to discover definitely whether or not Ohio residents are willing to pay for as much relief as they demand. Finally, they will not accept a county bond issue to raise the money the state is said to need, a sum commonly estimated to be more than $15,000,000 and not more than $20,000,000.

As far as the governor's program is concerned, this leaves a schedule of nuisance taxes as the best bet for the legislation the general assembly has been convened to enact. The other point in the program is a carry-all, including a 3 per cent tax on telephone and gas companies, a beer tax, an admission tax and an additional tax on cosmetics. It is designed to furnish revenue to retire the county bond issue suggested by the governor. Elimination of the latter involves elimination of the former, at least in its present form.

A schedule of nuisance taxes will be fought bitterly on the grounds that it will impede business recovery in a period when encouragement is more desirable than at any time in years. However, experience shows that nuisance taxes are the easy way out for legislative bodies that are faced with the necessity of raising money with a minimum of regard for sound tax principles and a maximum of regard for an immediate increase in the flow of revenue. Other forms of taxation are not entirely out of the question for Ohio, but an augmented schedule of nuisance taxes is the safest bet.

Good Record.

The capture of Harvey J. Bailey, confirmed criminal, murderer and main figure in the Kansas City plaza massacre and the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel is another creditable entry in the list of federal successes with important crimes. The department of justice has demonstrated to a large part of public opinion that it possesses sufficient intelligence and strength to capture and prosecute criminals.

Bailey's detention promises to be one of those strokes by which an unexpected amount of good can be accomplished. Ruthless, intelligent and capable, he was a moving spirit in the underworld element of the southwest. Real leaders are scarce among criminals; Bailey has qualified himself for rare distinction. He will be missed acutely by the apparently numerous gang with which he worked on his various projects of extortion and murder.

The federal government's accomplishment in capturing him will be offered as proof of the necessity for a national police organization. It will be pointed out that the states once more have shown themselves helpless to do what federal organization was able to do with comparative ease. Everything has conspired, in this instance, to attract attention to the power of the central government and away from the proper function of the state governments.

The question entailed in the circumstances of society's most recent acute concern with the crime menace seems to be one chiefly of responsibility for dealing with criminals. Heretofore, crime has been primarily a state responsibility, with local government expected to take the initiative in dealing with it. Currently, as has happened many times before, circumstances have made it appear that protection against crime could be made stronger if it were to bebcome a federal responsibility.

On one hand is the principle of states' rights and the tradition of a federal government which should be strong, but not all-powerful. On the other side is an excellent record of success when the federal government went to work on crimes which local governments had been unable to solve. If principle is to be preserved, practice must improve.

127,000,000 Interested Parties.

The tiff on the consumers advisory board is amplified as to causes by the memorandum submitted to Administrator Johnson by Professor William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago. Professor Ogburn has handed in his resignation as a protest against the manner in which the board's function, according to his conceptions, is being slighted.

Selections from the memorandum are quoted herewith.

> If the evolution of industry is to be toward greater consolidation, the partnership with the government should be strong enough to protect the consumer . . . The consumer will lose unless indexes of prices and purchasing power are developed. . . . The voices of the consumers will undoubtedly be loud in the coming years on this issue, as is shown from German experience with cartels. . . . The consumers board needs universal support. It has no supporting organizations as has the labor board with underlying unions, and as has the industries board with its powerful and wealthy associations. There are 127,000,000 supporters of the consumers board, but they have few organizations and can be reached only through the press.

In short, Professor Ogburn is fearful lest the trend toward closer organization of producers will make it easier for prices to increase independently of the natural causes which have regulated them to consumers pocketbooks in the past. Although without direct authority, he speaks for all consumers. Many of them, who believe he has the right idea, will be disappointed if his views are dismissed too lightly. NRA depends, after all, not on the organization of agencies of production, but on the ability of consumers to absorb the things marketed by those agencies. Prices must be as well regulated as costs or the recovery program will be futile.

Willing To Be Convinced.

There is universal agreement on one thing about NRA. Its success or failure will be evident by the end of September at the very latest. The more commonly accepted date is the first of September.

Whatever the exact date, the time at which the recovery program will be examined for merit will be at that stage in its operation when business activity either is continuing to increase at a rate which leaves no doubt about the success of the recovery effort or when it begins to fall off at a rate which shows plainly that the initial momentum of the effort has worn off, leaving nothing substantial to take its place.

Already, those business men who have tried to comply with the idea of recovery to be achieved by restoring buying power and have become convinced that it is impossible are looking forward to NRA's failure. They are joined by other business men who never tried to comply with the spirit of the recovery effort, although displaying symbols for business purposes.

These are the inevitable "croaker" types always present when an experiment is being tried. Their appearance indicates nothing, except that they haven't disappeared from the earth. What they believe about NRA may be substantiated by later developments, and again it may not. They have a little less than an even chance to be right—a little less, because of the general realization that if NRA doesn't work there is nothing to take its place. It isn't the Roosevelt administration which will be left holding an exploded firecracker, but the whole country.

The people are willing to be convinced that benefits have been achieved by NRA. Even though it fails to work, according to the standards of capitalists, there remains the possibility that, according to the standards of wage earners, it still might be a success. Whatever it doesn't do in the way of making more profit possible, it has implanted ineradicable social changes in the consciousness of the people. There is, in fact, small chance that it can be a complete failure. The real question is how successful it can become in the next few weeks of trial.

Big Names.

It would be difficult to compile a list of greater merit than the one which Ohio prohibitionists will offer to voters in November showing their candidates for delegates to the state's repeal convention. In it are educators, lawyers, ministers, community and group leaders—the finest representatives of society.

Unfortunately, there will not be time for voters to compare the qualifications of these people with the qualifications of candidates offered by the opposition. On the ballot, the names will not be accompanied by descriptions of the owners' peculiar qualifications. Individually, candidates will be about as important as presidential electors, whose names did not even appear on the ballots last November.

In other words, big names will not determine whether the delegates to the repeal convention are to be prohibitionists or anti-prohibitionists. It is belief or disbelief in the principle of national prohibition that are the grounds for election. Significantly, the list of candidates offered by anti-prohibitionists was impressive from the standpoint of big names, too.

Opposition to national prohibition, after many years of dubious standing, finally has attained respectability. No longer is it tainted irrevocably with opposition to control of the liquor traffic. Bitter experience with national prohibition has proved that an issue of good government is concerned. Prohibitionists are to be congratulated on the support of so many fine people, but quality no longer is one of their peculiar marks of distinction.

Comment of the Press

A CODE FOR MA?

With codes fairly tumbling over each other it is not out of order that one should be suggested for the housewife. From Iowa comes an engaging story of a demand by housewives for a "day" from 7 a. m. to 7.30 p. m., with four hours in the afternoon "unencumbered," a minimum allowance of $14 a week for the housekeeping budget, and Sundays off.

That sounds fair enough, even if it is a long way from a 35 to 40-hour week. But who expects the housewives will get it? Least of all the housewives. Now and then a determined home maker has successfully organized her working hours and her family's demands and made them like it. But despite the preachments of home economic experts such geniuses of time accounting are in the minority.

Usually the best devised schedule crumbles before demands of "Ma, where's my clean socks" and "Ma, will you darn this hole in my sweater and then show me how teacher expects me to get this algebra problem?" Ma usually recognizes such emergencies and forgets about her time table. It may be tough on Ma, but it is what keeps the great American family going.

The chances are that Ma will continue to operate on this method, NRA or no NRA. Ever since the beginning of the family it has been so. Some 3,000 years ago the wise author of the Proverbs, who ought to have known something about housewives, was describing the good woman who "riseth while it is yet night and giveth meat to her household." He added that she "eatheth not of the bread of idleness." You can bet she doesn't, even in this delicatessen age.

Today's housewife has it over the several hundred who made up the menage of Solomon thanks to the march of science. And there are some who let hubby get his own meal if business or pleasure calls him out of bed "while it is yet night." But most housewives continue to be plenty busy.

However there are rewards. Even Solomon recognized them after his paen of praise for wifely drudgery which may well grate upon the nerves of a 1933 feminist. They are intangible but most important: "Her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her."

If husband will remember that last suggestion of Solomon's and do a little praising now and then, he need not fear lest a housewives' code upset his comfort. Domestic felicity needs no better lubricant.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Health Value of Bulk Food.

Man suffers from many ailments. Some of them are the penalty of what we call "civilization." Among such the most common is constipation.

Medical research shows that few adults escape it. When the active period of childhood is passed and the more sedentary habits of age are acquired, elimination becomes sluggish.

Just because it is so common, is no reason why the condition should be taken lightly. It should not be disregarded even though for a time it may seem to be attended by any serious consequences. If permitted to continue it produces dull headache, loss of appetite and a "rundown" condition. If it is too long neglected it may be a factor, directly or indirectly, in the onset and progress of really dangerous diseases.

If it has not taken on a stubborn and aggravated form, the failure of elimination can be relieved. The condition is corrected by a diet that provides the fiber or "bulk" required to stimulate the sluggish intestinal tract. Such a diet may keep it functioning properly.

Many of our modern, refined foods provide too little bulk. In the foods he consumed in their natural state, primitive man found it in abundance. A study of the habits and practices of primitive tribes living in the world today, reveals that their members are singularly free from this trouble.

Bulk can be added to the diet by an increased consumption of the leafy, fibrous vegetables or fruits. Another popular source of supply is "commercially prepared bran, the outer coating of the wheat grain."

The addition of about two tablespoons of bran to the daily menu is a safe and effective means of promoting normal elimination. For the great majority of people, particularly in middle life, this will be most helpful. By itself, or in combination with other breakfast foods, it makes a palatable and acceptable dish.

Very young children, sufferers from intestinal obstruction and those who have hyper-sensitive intestinal tracts, may not tolerate fibrous foods. They will reject it, whether eaten as bran or taken in the form of leafy, fibrous vegetables, or fruits. In such cases the trouble calls for a physician's attention and treatment.

The use of bran is usually regarded merely as a means of providing the system with bulk or fiber, but it is also an excellent source of iron and vitamin B. Iron is needed to build good, red blood and as a preventive against anemia. Since vitamin B aids intestinal tone it works with the fiber of bran to aid normal elimination.

If bran is well tolerated by your system, you do well to add it to the diet. It is a desirable human food.—Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Daily Talk to Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH.

OVERDOSES OF SUNSHINE.

In the first enthusiasm of getting out of the city and into the light and fresh air of the country it is very easy to overdo the modern health mania of sun-bathing.

Parents feel that all the sunshine possible must be concentrated on their children during the few weeks that it is available, and wish to expose them to its direct rays as quickly and thoroughly as they can.

The results of an excess of this treatment, however, may be serious and of long duration, and in the end it may well be that the child would have been better off without any exposure to the sun at all.

The most apparent symptoms of excessive exposure are not always the most serious. Of course, sunburn may be very painful, and, if too severe, may even injure permanently the texture of the skin.

Or a child may have what the parents will lightly call "a touch of the sun"—really a slight sunstroke, which may consist only of a slight headache and a feeling of lassitude. But often this headache is accompanied by vomiting and high fever, and the consequences may be far-reaching.

Nature builds up her own resistance to the sun's direct rays in the coat of tan which she gradually spreads over the skin. To take a child fresh from the city and expose him to the direct rays of the sun for an unlimited or even for a long period of time is to court disaster.

The child must be accustomed to the exposure gradually, beginning with only a few minutes at a time until the skin gradually darkens. This may require a week, and even then strong doses of sunshine should be broken either with a dip into the water or a period of rest in the shade.

Highlights of Ohio History

NATIVE OHIO VICE PRESIDENTS.

It is a singular fact that while six native sons of Ohio have been elected to the Presidency (William Henry Harrison does not belong in this list, having been born in Virginia, although elected from Ohio) —all but one of the six, being citizens of Ohio at the time of election, no citizen of Ohio has ever been elected to the vice presidency.

Only three native sons of the state have been elected to the vice presidency, and all three had removed from the state and were citizens of other states at the time of their election. These were Thomas A. Hendricks, Charles W. Fairbanks and Charles G. Dawes.

Hendricks, the first to be honored, was born on a farm in Muskingum county, Sept. 7, 1819. He was but six months old when his family moved to southern Indiana in which state he rose to prominence. He was nominated with Grover Cleveland by the Democrats in 1884.

Fairbanks was born at Unionville Center, Union county, in 1852. He attended Ohio Wesleyan and left Ohio to practice law in Indianapolis. He was elected vice president on the ticket with Roosevelt in 1904.

Dawes was born in Marietta in 1865, was graduated from Marietta college and Cincinnati law school, practiced law in Lincoln, Nebr., and moved to Chicago in 1894. He was elected to the vice presidency with Coolidge in 1924.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 17—Whatever others say or think about A. V. Dalrymple and his conduct as director of the nation's prohibition forces, the big major carries away with him documentary proof of loyal co-operation from the chief.

MAJ. A. V. DALRYMPLE

Just before the prohibition bureau was merged with the bureau of investigation, Attorney General Cummings wrote him:

"In certain quarters, I understand, it is said there has been constant friction between us from the time of your appointment, and that I have been irritated by the manner in which you have discharged your duties.

"Nothing of course could be further from the truth."

Perhaps no other appointment in the new administration was the storm center as that of Major Dalrymple. His career as prohibition director here was brief but vivid.

He had been in office only three weeks before he was the center of a controversy.

When it became noised about that brewing permits had been issued to eastern gangsters, the hurricane broke around his head. Things were complicated further when it became known that he had shifted a Pacific coast administrator without foreknowledge of the attorney general.

Dalrymple became irritated at what he termed "slight criticisms" of his office. In a turbulent press conference he dictated a statement that fairly bristled. Then, flatly declining to answer any questions about his actions since he had been director, he pounded his desk and refused to say anything further.

Immediately rumors that Dalrymple's days as prohibition director were numbered began to spread. It was also hinted that he and Senator McAdoo of California, who had advocated his appointment, had come to a parting of the ways.

Speculation as to how long he would remain in office was increased by his appearance before the ways and means committee of the house in support of a bill that would legalize 11 per cent wine while at the same time he expressed his opposition to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

There have been many czars of prohibition crossing the Washington stage. Cramer of Ohio was the first, in the closing days of the Wilson administration. Roy Haynes of Ohio was next. Then followed General Andrews, Dr Doran, Seymour Lowman, Mabel Walker Willebrandt and finally Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, who went out when the new administration came in March 4.

MOODS.

Last night I saw the waning moon drift high
Above a spectral world, mist-wreathed and dim;
Vague whispers rustled through the cloud-swept sky;
Life flowed, unreal, the rolling earth a whim
To please the fantasy of some strange god,
And man a little creature crawling there,
Of no more worth than any other clod.
Last night there was black magic in the air!

But now the sun with golden vintage floods
The happy world, transforming land and sea,
And my brave soul, a thrusting flower, buds
With gladness in a realm of ecstasy.
How strange a creature, man, unto whose heart
The shade and sun such changing moods impart!

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 17 — I tagged along to a radio broadcasting station with Irvin Cobb recently. An old hand on the lecture platform, chautauqua and at the banquet boards, he was as casual about his appearance before the microphone as a gentleman dropping in at the corner for a cigar.

O. O. McIntyre

While I had nothing to do with the program, a sudden realization I was within earshot of millions of homes gave me a jittery tingle. I had a feeling that any moment I would disrupt things with a sudden fit of sneezing or let go an ankle-deep hiccough. After awhile one becomes adjusted.

Then the tip-toe air, the atmosphere of nodding and whispering begins to have curious effect. The restraint of the musicians, longing to make little toots and tinkles that precede melody, balloons the tension. One tries to occupy thoughts by looking around, but the silence nags.

In most people there resides a conscienceless little devil beckoning us to hurl an egg into an electric fan or toss a banana peel under the heel of a savant. A vague undergraduate urge to outrage proprieties. I managed to stifle such nonsense, but departed in a dew of restraint.

In appearance and likely in experience Ben Ali Haggin, the painter, is one of New York's most accomplished worldlings. Yet there was a time in his early 20's in London he did not feel much the sophisticate. At an art ball, one lonely evening, he met a beautiful lady of the theater. From that moment until the disillusionment he was her willing slave. She would accept nothing, however, but flowers. Each morning his phone at the Savoy would ring and a brisk voice would say, "This is Darrow, the florist," and would enumerate his offerings for the day. Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, Aug. 17, 1923.

The four-power Pacific treaty of the Washington armament conference, between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan, and the five-power naval treaty between these nations and Italy, went into effect. It was proclaimed the most important international accomplishment of the Harding administration. Under its terms the great powers of the world agreed to scrap most of their big warships and it was expected to maintain peace in the Pacific for at least 10 years.

NEWSPAPER'S SALES APPEAL PUT FIRST

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 — Newspaper advertising proved the most effective and productive medium for sales appeal to the public during the past three depression years.

This was the consensus of several hundred members of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishing Dealers, in convention here in a round table discussion of advertising problems yesterday.

Salem N. Baskin, president of the Baskin stores, urged that every store owner adopt an "advertising code" and adhere to it as strictly as to the NRA code.

WATCH THIS MAN

. . he hides behind the "cheap road" budget

"Hi" Driving Cost gets the last laugh when cheap roads are laid. For it's High Driving Cost—the excess cost of use—that makes taxpayers pay plenty for "bargain" roads.

Every type of road has its dollars-and-cents cost of use. These costs have been obtained by impartial road tests carried on by government and state engineers since 1917. They show why the "cheap" roads cost more than the high-type roads, even when traffic volumes are moderate. And they prove, as you probably thought, that a CONCRETE ROAD costs LESS TO USE than any other kind.

Insist on CONCRETE for your roads—get the most and best road for the money—and the maximum employment for labor!

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION

HERE'S the Cost-Per-Mile Difference Between Concrete and Less-Than-Concrete Roads

IT COSTS, on the Average:

3/4¢ — 3/4c more per mile to drive on bituminous macadam than on concrete.

1 1/4¢ — 1 1/4c more per mile to drive on gravel than on concrete.

2¢ — 2c more per mile to drive on an earth road than on concrete.

RIVERSIDE TIRES

have LATEX WELDED CORDS
(100% PURE LIQUID RUBBER)
which prevent Cord Separation . . the cause of blowouts

Do you know this? An average size tire goes round 395 times every minute at only 35 miles an hour! Think what happens when you drive at this speed—or faster! Friction develops scorching heat inside your tires! In many tires other than Riversides this heat separates cords! It weakens the tire, forms internal blisters! When you hit a rock or a bump . . . BANG! A blowout!

You need the added protection Riversides give you! Riversides' Cords—the heart of the tire—are made from extra strong, long staple, premium cotton. Every cord in every ply is dipped in LATEX—100% pure, liquid, virgin rubber. This welds the cords into a super strong unit! It gives Riversides the strongest tire carcass made! It prevents cord separation . . . the cause of blowouts!

Why We Save You Money

Of course Riversides are made in one of America's largest and best tire factories. BUT—they come direct to us—minus the manufacturer's selling and general overhead expense. That's a saving. The second saving comes from Wards low cost method of distribution. These two reasons explain why we sell high quality tires for less. It's simple to figure out for yourself why Riversides are better in quality, mileage, and safety than any other tire at the same price.

Cord Separation
This shows how cords inside tires other than Riversides are separated by heat. Cord separation causes internal blisters, weakens the tire. A blowout is the result! Riversides are Blowout Proof because of Latex dipping!

Latex Dipping
By an extra process, every cord in every ply in all Riverside tires is dipped in Latex. This welds the cords into a super strong unit that defies cord separation and blowouts!

*RIVERSIDE TIRES will not blow out under normal road conditions during the life of the tread if they are kept properly inflated in accordance with the specified air pressure.

Gasco Staves Off Huber Rally To Take 2-1 Victory

WINNERS CERTAIN OF TIE FOR INDUSTRIAL LOOP CHAMPIONSHIP

Schwaderer Loses Control in Ninth but Manages To Escape Defeat.

Staving off defeat in the final inning by the barest possible margin, the Gasco club yesterday turned in a 2-1 triumph over the Huber Manufacturing company and assured itself of finishing the Industrial league pennant race with nothing worse than a tie for first place. The Gassers have yet to play the Erie Traffic club and can cinch the flag by beating the Railroaders. A crowd of approximately 1,700 the largest of the year, saw the game, played at Lincoln park.

While the entire game was jammed with spectacular plays, it took the final inning to produce the fireworks which turned the crowded stands into a bedlam of noise.

Going into the seventh frame with a 2-0 lead, the Gasco appeared to have the game pretty well sewed up. It was this point which Dale Schwaderer, star right hander, picked to lose his control and put the Gasco "on the spot" by handing out three consecutive bases on balls, the first time insofar as can be determined, that Schwaderer has ever done such a stunt.

O'Connell, the first Huber batter of the inning reached first on a scratchy infield hit. Schwaderer then proceeded to get Mutt Kellogg to the 3 and 2 point and then walked him. With two men on and no one out, Schwaderer lost all control and threw four straight balls to Armbruster, jamming the sacks with still no one out. He did the same thing to Sloat and forced in a run.

Possibly feeling that he had gone plenty far enough with the charity stuff with a championship at stake, Schwaderer tightened down and forced Fields to hit a weak infield roller which allowed Kellogg to be thrown out at the plate. Edgington popped up to third base and two men were down. Benny Crabtree then ended the struggle by striking out on a called third strike.

The Gasco marked up its two runs early in the game, one of them coming as the result of an error. The first tally crossed the plate in the opening frame when Richards singled and eventually scored on Gallant's single. The second came in the third frame when O'Connell dropped Young's fly ball in short left after a hard run.

Benny Crabtree, Huber twirler, was combed for nine hits but kept them fairly well scattered. Schwaderer allowed three safeties and pitched no-hit ball for the first four frames. Schwaderer struck out six batters and handed out four free tickets. Crabtree issued but one walk and struck out one.

GEHRIG TIES RECORD BUT NEW YORK DROPS CLASH TO BROWNIES

Washington Wins To Lead Yanks By Six and One Half Games.

By The Associated Press

Lou Gehrig was ready today to tuck the toughest of all major league baseball records in his hip pocket and go on playing baseball. But his club, the New York Yankees, faced the painful knowledge that they were 6½ games behind the league leading Washington Senators.

The stolid, sturdy Lou yesterday played his 1,307th consecutive game since he broke into the Yankee lineup way back in 1925. That equaled the record set by Everett Scott, with the Boston Red Sox and the Yankees. Today Gehrig was due to establish a new mark.

Gehrig led the Yankee hitters yesterday but at that he got only two hits off his former teammate, Ed Wells, while the St. Louis Browns hammered young Charley Devens, Danny MacFayden and George Uhle for 18 hits and a 13 to 3 victory.

Washington Wins

That happened while Washington was scoring a 5 to 1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

With Earl Whitehill on the mound and pitching shutout ball except for Luke Appling's homer in the fifth, the Senators pecked away at Milt Gaston's delivery and piled up plenty of runs to gain their eighth straight victory.

Down where the race is closer, the Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers came through with a pair of shaky victories and remained tied for fourth place. The Indians edged out the Philadelphia Athletics 5-4 and Detroit beat the Boston Red Sox, 6-5.

The New York Giants' 20th shutout victory of the season at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds, put them four games up on the Pirates, and 5½ ahead of the Cubs and sent Boston into fourth place.

Giants Get Shutout

Hal Schumacher delivered the Giants their victory by a 5-0 score, blanking the Reds with five hits. Danny Taylor and Van Mungo kept Pittsburgh from winning two games as Mungo held them to seven hits and one run in the eleventh inning opener and Taylor smacked two homers to gain a 2-1 decision for Brooklyn. The Bucs lost little time in smacking Ownie Carroll and two successors for an 11-7 victory in the second clash.

Fred Frankhouse of Boston and Bud Tinning of Chicago waged a scoreless duel for seven innings, then the Braves cut loose and scored six runs in the eighth to win 6-1. The Phillies and Cards waged a pair of exciting struggles, St. Louis winning the first 7 to 6 in 12 innings when Jimmy Collins smacked a homer to break up the battle, and the Phils the second 2-0 as Austin (Cy) Moore got the better of Dizzy Dean in a mound duel.

NO GAMES TODAY

Epworth and Reformed To Play Next Monday for Church Crown.

Today is an off day in the race for the city softball championships. No games are scheduled. The next tilt will be played Friday at 6 p. m. when the Gasco and Erie Traffic clubs clash at Lincoln park in an Industrial league conflict.

The play-off for the No. 2 Sunday school league championship between the Epworth Seniors and the First Reformed Sunday schools was originally scheduled for today but has been set back to next Monday. Dale Schwaderer is the first string twirler for both Reformed and the Gasco and had the Reformed-Epworth game been played today, he would have been asked to pitch three games in three days.

BEN WHITE PILOTS MARY REYNOLDS TO VICTORY AT GOSHEN

Bay Filly Takes First and Third Heats; Parshall Finishes Third.

By The Associated Press

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 17—Little did the late Pop Geers, whose name is synonymous with light harness racing realize that the husky boy of 23 years, who came to him to learn the art of the sport 36 years ago, would some day drive the winner of a trotting race worth more than $40,000.

In those days, a trotter earning that much in a single race or in one year, was an unheard of event. But yesterday, Ben White, now a grey-haired 60-year-old veteran of the sulky, turned the trick when he guided Mary Reynolds, a slim, bay filly, owned by W. N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C., to victory in the seventh renewal of the Hambletonian.

White ranks Mary Reynolds as one of the best horses he has driven and his contention is borne out by the Filly's time of 2:03¾, which she made in winning the first heat. J. I. Lyle's Brown Berry, of Plainfield, N. J., trotted a mile in the same time in beating Mary Reynolds in the second heat.

Mary Reynolds' victory netted her tobacco merchant owner $28,323. But for a wet spot on the back stretch in the track, White is confident the filly would have won in straight heats, as it was she took the decision in two out of three.

"Mary broke her stride, when she hit the wet spot," said White.

Brown Berry won second money of $7,400 while third portion of the purse went to Meurice, from William Hughes' Cleveland stable. Murice was driven by Dr. H. M. Parshall. Hollywood Portia, trained and driven by her wealthy Lexington owner, John L. Dodge, was fourth.

GRANT SUBDUED BY ELLSWORTH VINES

By The Associated Press

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17—Ellsworth Vines seems to have effaced the memory of his upsetting Davis cup experiences as he moves onward toward his third straight Newport Casino victory, showing a startling improvement with each match.

The lanky California titlist confounded his critics yesterday when he blasted Bryan Grant, promising Atlanta youth out of the tourney with a sensational string of 26 placements in a 16-game match and today he was slated to engage Lester Stoefen, being groomed for future Davis cup service, in the fifth round.

Gehrig, In His Prime At 30, Has Chance To Set Real Consecutive Game Record

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—In the process of cracking the all-time major league "iron man" record for consecutive games played Henry Louis Gehrig has an opportunity to build it up for a long time to come, unless he or Manager Joe McCarthy decides an enforced rest for the Yankee first baseman is essential at some future date.

The Yankees have had only one first baseman for so long that it is hard to recall when they last had an understudy for Gehrig, although Babe Ruth has taken a whirl at the bag in exhibition games while Lou rested up in right field.

Gehrig Only 30

Gehrig is only 30 years old now and has the advantage of being in his prime in approaching consecutive game No. 1,308—for a new world record — whereas Leslie Everett Scott, familiarly known as the "Deacon," was 33 and distinctly on the down-grade when he ended his record run of 1,307 games on May 6, 1925, at shortstop for the Yankees.

Scott was traded to Washington the same year, later released outright to the Chicago White Sox and in a short time dropped into minor league company. Never much better than a .250 hitter, the "Deacon" slowed up during the latter stages of his long streak, playing in a position that took heavy toll in his legs, but he played a lot of good baseball afterward in "AA" company.

Scott weighed only 174 pounds and stood a trifle short of 5 feet 10 inches in his playing prime, while Gehrig scales over 200 pounds and measures an inch over 6 feet. Bowling was Scotty's chief off-season recreation and exercise for keeping in condition while Gehrig prefers hand-ball and golf.

Scott Handicapped

Scott began his record run while with the Boston Red Sox in 1916 and continued it with the Yankees from 1922 on. His total of games did not include 27 world series contests as well as about 200 exhibition appearances. He was handicapped in setting a much higher mark by the fact that he was limited to only 126 games in 1918 and 138 in 1919, the war years during which the major leagues shortened their schedules.

There are two coincidences in the Scott and Gehrig streaks. Both began their record endurance runs as substitute players. Scott replaced Hal Janvrin at short in the ninth inning of a game between the Red Sox and Yankees on June 20, 1916 and kept the regular job thereafter. Gehrig went in as a pinch-hitter for Wally Pipp, then the regular Yankee first sacker, on June 1, 1925. The following day he got the staring job at first and has had it ever since. Thus he began his streak only some three weeks after Scott's was ended.

Both changes the passing of Scott and arrival of Gehrig, marked the reconstruction of the Yankees from a seventh-place outfit in 1925 to a pennant winner in 1926.

Hemorrhoids Go Quick

All Pile Misery Ended Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands who have itching, bleeding or protruding piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

HEM-ROID tablets have such a wonderful record of success in this city that Henney & Cooper and all good druggists invite you to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money refunded if it does not end your Pile misery.—Adv.

SPRINGFIELD TEAM NEAR LEGION TITLE

By The Associated Press

RICHMOND, Ind., Aug. 17—Springfield, O., needed only a victory over Jasper, Ind., today to become this region's representative at a sectional meet of the national junior baseball tournament, sponsored by the American Legion.

The Ohio team swamped the southern Indiana aggregation, 22 to 1, in the first of a three-game series, yesterday. If Jasper should come back to win this afternoon, another contest would follow immediately to determine the regional winner.

DE MAR WILL QUIT "WHEN I AM 70"

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 17—Clarence De Mar plans to quit running marathon races "when I am 70" and he still expects to be fairly good then.

The veteran distance runner, now 45, who 17 times has won a marathon race, said he thought "twenty-five years more of it will be just about enough."

"I don't expect to be quite so good the last year as I am now, of course," he conceded, "but I hope I won't be the worst in the game even then."

De Mar headed a field of 31 runners who today step off a 26-mile jaunt sponsored by the United Irish societies of Cleveland.

FATHER-SON LINKS TOURNEY BEGINS AT MAR-O-DEL AUG. 23

Second 18 Holes To Be Contested Over Country Club Course.

The dates were set today for the first father and son golf tournament ever sponsored here under joint direction of the Mar-O-Del and Marion Country clubs. The tournament will be played over both courses, 18 holes at each place.

The first 18 holes will be played at the Mar-O-Del from Aug. 23 to 25 inclusive. The second 18 will be played at the Country club from Aug. 29 to Sept. 1 inclusive. The entrance fee will be $1.10. This is a 10 cent increase over the previously announced entrance fee, caused Martin Kavanaugh, Country club pro said today, by a new state amusement tax levied against such an affair.

Any father and son may enter the tourney signing up at either of the two clubs. Entries will be received up to the playing time of the tournament. The two clubs are anxious to make the event a big one. Should the tourney be a success, it is planned to make it an annual affair. A trophy will be awarded the winner.

Two inter-club matches between the Mar-O-Del and Country clubs also were announced today. The first of the two will be played at the Mar-O-Del on Sunday, Sept. [illegible] The second will be played on Sunday, Sept. 17, at the Country club.

A new course record for women golfers was hung up last Sunday at the Country club. Kavanaugh announced at the same time he released the information of the father and son tournament. Mrs. [illegible] blazed her way around 18 holes for a score of 91.

Gilbert, emer- cultural assistant as- explain the plan to farmers, said today. purpose of the plan is to enable wheat curtail production, re- market of burdensome and raise the price of point that a bushel much manufactured before the war. pects that within a the work of setting up a county wheat production control association will be well under way. Community committees also will be chosen representing the 15 townships in the county.

Preliminary steps of explaining the plan were taken Tuesday night when wheat growers from each township met in the Marion National bank building to hear a talk by Bert A. Wallace of the agricultural extension service in rural economics of Ohio State university.

Today 1200 pamphlets "The Balanced Harvest" were sent out from Gilbert's office to wheat growers in the county in explanation of the program. Two pages of the pamphlet contain questions and answers about the plan bearing the signature of President Roosevelt. Other copies are available at Gilbert's office in the Marion National bank directors' room or will be sent out on request.

A series of meetings will be held in various points of the county and all wheat farmers will be asked to attend, in order that Gilbert and other representatives of the government may explain the plan to them. No attempts will be made to sign the farmers up, Gilbert said, until the plan is thoroughly understood over the county.

Marion county's wheat allotment of 209,691 bushels is that portion of the crop on which farmers will receive benefit payments of approximately 28 cents a bushel, Gilbert said. The allotment is 54 per cent of the average production in the years 1928-1932, and is the estimated amount that is domestically consumed.

Nearly $50,000 in benefit payments will be brought into Marion county, Gilbert said, if the plan is given unanimous consent.

The Stars Say

For Friday, Aug. 18.

A day of tumult and confusion, with devastating and disintegrating forces at work, according to the lunar transits, and yet much constructive accomplishment is also presaged, if restraint, calm judgment and wise counsel are brought to bear upon complications. Strife, violent, impulsive and reckless acts or words, especially in contacts with strange persons or places, are factors for control and profitable direction.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared to cope with a year in which disruptive and devastating forces are at work, complicated by a tendency to rash, impulsive and tumultuous conduct. These under restraint, and the stimulated energies directed into constructive channels, may be sure of the friendly aid of employers or those in position of power and authority.

A child born on this day may be energetic, forceful, tempestuous and wayward, but adventurous and ambitious, in the end successful and respected.

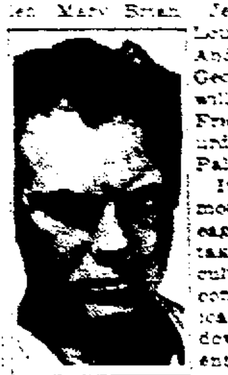
BICKFORD RETURNS TO SCREEN IN FILM BILLED AT PALACE

"The Song of the Eagle," featuring Charles Bickford, Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Jean Hersholt, Louise Dresser, Andy Devine and George E. Stone, will be shown Friday and Saturday on the Palace screen.



CHARLES BICKFORD

It isn't the famous NRA "blue eagle" that has taken up voice culture. The story concerns America from 1916 down to the present time, the tempestuous years in the life of a family of German-American brewers told against a background of two seething decades of epoch-making events.

This is Bickford's first picture for a long time, and he comes back as leader of a gang of bootleggers. Hersholt plays the brewer, Arlen is his son and Miss Dresser is his wife.

STOCKS SLIP AFTER RALLY

Shares Move Upward in Early Sales But Drop Back Later

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug 17—Financial markets [illegible] after a fast [illegible] most of them [illegible] back to their routine [illegible] the past several days

A sharp [illegible] grains at Chicago, after [illegible] around [illegible] at the opening [illegible] covers in shares which had generally been [illegible] In the brief [illegible] gained 1 to 3 or more points and the ticker tape dropped behind floor transactions Wheat became [illegible] which had shown gains of about $3 a bale [illegible] territory Stock buying consequently slowed down and the market resumed its apathetic [illegible] Secondary bonds followed stocks The dollar was a bit easier in foreign exchange dealings

As [illegible] trading activity windled to a minimum a number of the share favorites held their early gains National Distillers got up around 6 points while issues up 3 to around 5 included Case Threshing Celanese Industrial Rayon Western Union U S Industrial Alcohol Du Pont, Deere Sears Roebuck Montgomery Ward Allied Chemical American Telephone U S Steel American Commercial Alcohol and New York Central Santa Fe, Chrysler Union Pacific and a number of others retained 1 or more points of their early advances

With the appearance of the awaited rally in the morning many odd-lot traders, who had been watching patiently for a buying cue reentered with variegated orders for leading issues Much of this small purchasing it was said, was for cash At the same time the conservative contingent continued quite large with indications that it was still pursuing a "watchful waiting" policy

GRAIN VALUES GENERALLY UP

Market Reversed as Confidence Returns and Prices Move Higher.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug 17—Startling reversal of grain trade sentiment took place today and markets became as buoyant as they yesterday had been the direct opposite

A return of confidence among buyers originated in corn, and later went like wild fire through oats and other grains, finally overwhelming wheat There was no evidence of concentrated buying of any cereal and rumors of a huge pool having been formed to purchase wheat were explicitly denied. Such a pool was talked of yesterday but abandoned last night, recent legal enactments and trade regulations being found an insuperable impediment

Much of the change of sentiment leading to today's buying and general rise of values was ascribed to the better market background provided as a result of removal of all grain trade restrictions except a maximum limits up or down in price changes in any one day
